

ACHIEVE

Attendance—Regular attendance is very important and closely related to success at school. Arriving on time and staying the entire day helps your child receive maximum instruction time and develop good work habits.

Communication—Is the key to being involved and informed; attend parent teacher conferences, request a conference prior or after if you have additional concerns, and inform the teacher of special circumstances that may be effecting your child's behavior or academic success.

Health—Good physical and mental health contribute to school achievement..

Interest—Your child needs to know that his or her progress in school is important to you.

Expectations—Expect the best from your child. Expect your child to use the ABC rule; Ask questions and ask for help when they need it, Behave in a manner that allows then and other to learn, Complete class and homework assignments on time.

Volunteer— Show your interest and support by volunteering to assist in some capacity.

Encourage— Encourage and recognize your child's efforts.

Research continues to confirm that parents are a vital part of the educational process and of the educational experience of their children. When school personnel work with families to develop meaningful relationships that support learning, children will succeed not just in school but also throughout life.
